Giesbrecht

two years on council Helmut Giesbrecht has a reputation for careful consideration of decisions to be made and he comes to every meeting obviously prepared.

Giesbrecht, a junior secondary school teacher, wants to stay on council because he believes his experience could be a benefit.

"I think the first two years are spent learning the ropes," he said, "an apprenticeship."

Giesbrecht first decided to run for council because he got involved in a rezoning issue in his neighborhood and became very vocal about his opposition.

"I thought, if I'm going to be critical, I should join council," he said.

A lot has been accomplished in the last two years, Giesbrecht thinks, although he is careful to point out it was the work of all of council. As a matter of fact, he always uses the pronoun "we" when speaking of improvements made by council.

Financially, the town was in pretty bad shape when he first took office, Giesbrecht said, but council managed to replenish some of the surpluses which had been depleted in 1975.

The Elby Street drainage project is also one of his favorite projects now into its second phase this year. Closing off the drainage ditches will give Terrace "less of a hick town appearance."

The Sparks Street lift station improvements, adoption of five year water and sewage projects, expansion of space for local RCMP and management staff cuts which will cut costs are some other recent council improvements.

Giesbrecht is concerned that voters may have gotten the impression he is anti-development in light of recent development issues which he has been opposed to in council.

"I'm not opposed to everything," he stressed, "that's ridiculous."

What he does object to are agreements made with developers which may not adequately ensure protection to the overall plans of the community.

"I'm not against any developer," he said, "But I'm firmly convinced that when a developer comes in he has to abide by the rules."

Some of the examples he used were the Cloverlawn shopping centre, where nothing to date has been done; the so called "potato shed," which does not make planning sense; and the 4700 block Lazelle dispute, which has received only negative criticism, he said.

"You don't rezone on demand," he said, "you rezone on the basis of the needs of the community."

Looking ahead for Terrace, Giesbrecht thinks that a lot depends on industrial development which in turn is dependent on such things as changes in freight rates and the promotion of a north-south waterhighway.

Terrace does have a future as a communication and distribution centre for the northwest, he said, and the economic view has picked up considerably.

Boundary expansion is "not a major issue," but Giesbrecht believes we should prepare for it by studying the results.

"I wouldn't consider amalgamation if Terrace would have to foot the bill for Thornhill and other unorganized areas," he added.

Giesbrecht describes himself as completely independent, and insists he "will not pull strings for my friends."

He concluded his description by stating he is "positive and cautious...but I don't mind making my views known."

Councillors ready for another try

With only one more week to go until Terrace municipal elections on Nov. 19, the candidates are gearing up for the final push.

Only three aldermanic seats are open on council, and there are seven contenders for those positions. Recently we spoke with incumbents Helmut Giesbrecht and Jack Talstra about their reasons for wanting to hold on to their seats.

Giesbrecht, a school teacher, and Talstra, a lawyer, had similar recollections on the last two years and both looked forward to some quiet but necessary changes to Terrace in the near future.

Talstra

Jack Talstra has put in a "touch two years" on council, particularly because of the many changes within council and administration during that time.

There has been almost a complete turnover on council and top administrators have left the district employ, making for an unstable situation, Talstra said.

"We've got to have some stability on council for awhile," he said. "Somebody learns the ropes and they're gone."

Talstra, a barrister and solicitor who grew up in Terrace, first ran for council on a "social concern platform." He wanted to get street-workers to work with young people and also encouraged police to have foot patrols. Both projects were successful to various degrees, he said.

"I wanted to balance out what was a business-oriented group on council," he said, but the first thing that happened when he was elected was his appointment as chairman of the industrial development committee.

"There was a lot of social concerns there," he said jokingly.

Nevertheless, Talstra said, the committee did a good job of organizing the function and did a lot of work in the last two years.

"Industrial development was exciting," Talstra said. There was a lot of dealing with the provincial government and almost every provincial ministry.

The outcome of these many talks is that Terrace has now started working towards developing as a regional centre.

Service is a big part of the town, Talstra said, and he pointed to the drainage and sewage improvements which have been accomplished by council.

There has been a change in procedure for public works projects and a number of works projects will be ready to go ahead in the spring because of the completion of preliminary work.

For the next two years, Talstra sees "more of the same" programs being pursued by council. "More basic services to people without increasing taxes."

He also believes council should continue to plug for secondary industry.

Boundary expansion is not a major area of concern for Talstra because he believes the inclusion of sparsely populated large areas would just mean more basic service needs which are costly to the taxpayer.

He also cautioned that alderman must "get our act together on council."

Debate is fine, but we have to decide on a project, then work together."

A new zoning plan is desperately needed for Terrace, Talstra said, but if one is drawn up council has "got to have the guts to stick to it."

"I would like to see a real effort in town planning," he said. "Not big stuff, just some basics."

Talstra advised that council go easy on rezoning until a master plan is drawn up, something he will push for if re-elected.

The economy is picking up, Talstra said, which is evident by the number of new building going up. "This must mean something like the small businessman is taking their chances with the town," he said.

"This town is a young town, a frontier town," Talstra said. "And now we're showing some growing pains."

Fox claims ignorance

MONTREAL (CP) — Solicitor-General Francis Fox says senior RCMP officials did not tell the government about Operation Cathedral or Operation 300 before last week's reports about the alleged illegal activities because they did not think there was anything unusual or wrong about them.

"Going through the files, it is very clear that these operations—break-ins and mail diversion and opening—have been going on from almost time immemorial within the force," Fox said in an interview Sunday.

"It also seems clear that most people in the force have been brought up and trained in the context where those practices and procedures were already in use.

"I think that brings us to the question as to why last June, when I asked if there were any other illegal activities that should be reported, the answer I received was a negative one."

The solicitor-general also said the RCMP's mail diversion activities may have been reported to a royal commission investigating police control in 1969 without the knowledge of the public.

"It's something I really wonder about, because the commission did recommend a number of changes in the law to allow some of the practices and procedures the RCMP had been exercising as far back as 1954," said Fox.

He denied the RCMP had tried to keep the activities under wraps this time.

"Especially where Operation 300 is concerned, it was quite clear to the RCMP in their own minds that the series of break-ins were not illegal," he said.

"Their position, I think, was that to commit a criminal offence under the Criminal Code, you have to have the intention of committing an offence."

"And, of course, in their minds, when they were exercising their mandate for the protection of the national security, they in no way had any intentions of committing an illegal act."

"At the moment, a lot of people are becoming instant judges when it comes to the RCMP, and instant judges on very complex legal questions, and to my mind they are being very unfair to the people involved."

As a result, said Fox, his concern is not that illegal activities are occurring, but that members of the RCMP security service now are intimidated from performing their duties.

"They may be concerned that legal charges may be pending against other officers because of an illegal activity," he said. "So my concern is what the role of the security service is at the present time."

"It is crucial that this country not lose its security service because of what has gone on in the past."

Operation Cathedral, which Fox has confirmed had been in effect from 1954 until last June, involved the illegal intercepting and opening of private mail by the RCMP.

RCMP looked at medical files

TORONTO (CP) — The Globe and Mail says the RCMP gained access to confidential medical files and released sensitive information from them in an attempt to disrupt radical groups in the early 1970s.

Quoting sources close to the operation, the newspaper says information on who had been treated for mental illness, who was sexually deviant, who had emotional problems or any information that might humiliate people in target areas was obtained on a regular basis from hospitals or provincial health sources including the Ontario Health Insurance Plan.

The sources are quoted as saying the health records were obtained from paid informants who had access to them or by RCMP officers, predominantly those in the security service, who were permitted direct access to them by sympathetic employers.

The Globe and Mail says information was released through an informant in the tart group in the hope that it would cause dissension or, if the group was not infiltrated by the RCMP, the information was mailed or transmitted through anonymous telephone calls.

A source is quoted as saying leftists, black and Indian radical groups, right-wing extremists and extremist political parties were the groups on which the tactics most often were applied.

The newspaper also quotes an RCMP source as saying the work was mainly done by members of a counter-subversion unit which, at various times, concentrated on universities and teachers' federations, the news media, unions and political parties such as the Communist Party of Canada and the New Democratic Party.

The source is quoted as saying an investigation of dozens of federal and provincial NDP members emerged from a belief among many RCMP members that the party was subversive.

Aldermanic candidates speak

Terrace municipal and school district trustee candidates will meet with the public in the R.E.M. Lee Theatre on Tuesday, November 15, at 8:00 p.m. in the traditional Terrace Jaycee-sponsored All Candidates Night forum.

Introductory remarks by the candidates will be followed by an opportunity for all voters, as well as those not currently eligible to vote, to ask questions of those persons standing for office in the November 19 election. The program, which will also be carried live over CFTK-Radio and Channel 10 television, is once again being organized by the Jaycees in a manner which will encourage direct consideration of issues currently confronting the municipality and the local school district.

It is hoped that everyone interested in the forthcoming election will participate in this public forum.

London Firefighters walk off the job

LONDON (AP) — Twelve thousand hastily-trained army firefighters manning obsolete trucks and 16,000 civilian volunteers went on the alert as Britain's 43,000 firemen prepared to launch their first national strike today.

Government officials said the strike was expected to last at least a week.

No talks between leaders of the Fire Brigades' Union and government representatives were scheduled until Wednesday.

The strike is the most serious challenge so far of the Labor government's determination to maintain its 10-per-cent anti-inflation ceiling on annual wage increases, now in its third year.

The firemen, whose weekly base pay averages $64 (about $128), are demanding a 30-per-cent increase.

Home Secretary Merlyn Rees in a broadcast Sunday night said the government is not seeking showdowns over its pay policy that "is for the good of us all," but it will not back down.

Rees said he could not believe "that anyone, for example, would allow children's and old people's homes to burn down around their occupants." But Michael Brown, one of the firemen at the station that protects Windsor Castle, told reporters: "We won't turn out even if the Queen is trapped in the castle."

BOMB BLASTS FEARED The biggest danger appeared to be in strife-torn Northern Ireland, where security authorities expected the Irish Republican Army to intensify its firebomb campaign, to wreck Ulster's commercial life.

Five bombs exploded in Belfast on Sunday night, damaging at least three buildings. Four other bombs were defused.

In London, where the force of 6,500 firemen gets an average of 700 calls a day, only 1,600 inexperienced troops were on call. Most of them had only a few days' training in firefighting.

"We can't take over fire stations and their equipment to avoid confrontation with firemen's pickets," said Maj. Charles Fenwick of the Grenadier Guards, commanding 300 army firefighters at London's Chelsea Barracks. "We'll just have to make do with what we've got."

What they have is a fleet of 25-year-old civil defence firetrucks. They have no radios or sirens and will have to be guided by police cars because most of the soldier-drivers don't know the city streets.

Prince George group against McGregor dam

PRINCE GEORGE, B.C. (CP) — Representatives of 13 groups, including the British Columbia Wildlife Federation and the United Church of Canada, voted unanimously Saturday to call for an immediate halt to B.C. Hydro's proposed McGregor Dam diversion.

The resolution came during a day-long conference to discuss the 450-foot high earth-filled dam planned for the McGregor River, about 80 kilometres east of this interior city.

The dam would divert water in the McGregor, a tributary of the Fraser River, away from the Williston Reservoir, where it would be used to increase power production on Hydro's W.A.C. Bennett Dam on the Peace River.

The 90 delegates were told that the diversion would result in employment and environmental losses larger than benefits the new dam would bring.

ENDORSE RESOLUTIONS

Resolutions endorsed at the conference said the diversion would result in: —The flooding of over 40,000 acres of forest land and wildlife habitat in the McGregor River Valley. Another 10,000 acres would be destroyed due to the scouring of the Parsnip River Valley by the diverted McGregor River.

—The immediate loss of 20 per cent of the spring salmon habitat on the Fraser River, the province's major salmon producing river.

Graham Farstad of the McGregor Action Group, a local environmental organization, said that construction would wipe out the gains of a salmon enhancement program.

MINISTER AGAINST Federal representative Forbes Boyd told the meeting that Fisheries and Environment Minister Romeo LeBlanc would continue to oppose the diversion until environmental damages were reduced.

Conference chairman Bill Otway said the "basic dishonesty" of Hydro is the factor that frightens him most in dealing with provincial environmental issues.

Otway, executive director of the B.C. Wildlife Federation, said in an interview that the Crown corporation deliberately lied on the forecasts in the provincial energy growth rate so it could get approval to build a dam at Revelstoke, B.C.

He noted that Hydro had predicted a nine per cent energy growth rate in 1976, in contrast to the wildlife federation's forecast of six per cent.

Pipeline film showing

During the spring of 1977, long before the Thompson Inquiry was given its mandate, three women were involved in a project, a Pipeline Project. Lil Parkman and Hilda Griffin both of Terrace, along with Sharon McGavin of the National Film Board, put together an information film for use in the local communities. Their hope was to make the local communities aware of what this proposed Pipeline would mean to this area, and what would be the impact on one of the most important spawning areas in the Northwest... Lakelse Lake and its watershed.

It was made with the approval of an in conjunction with TRASK, and hopefully will be presented to the Thompson Inquiry when possible. In this manner they wanted to portray what it would mean to this area, where it is going to go, and what laws are needed to control such a line.

This film is being presented by Mrs. Parkman at the regular meeting of the K'Shaim Business and Professional Women at Gim's Restaurant, on the 16th of November at 7:30 in the evening. Everyone interested is invited to attend. For more information please phone 635-2425 anytime.

MANILA (AP) — Canadian guests were registered at a hotel in which as many as 50 people might have died in a fire early today, Philippine officials said.

Only one of the victims, a Japanese, had been identified as recovery efforts were hampered by a typhoon.

Norman Schara, 58, of Selkirk, Man., said he and Roy Armstrong, 72, of Vancouver, were in a second-floor room when they were warned to get out.

"We went down the stairs into the lobby," said Schara. "The fire seemed to be falling from the upper floors. We stood in the rain outside the hotel for several minutes while firemen started working on the fire."

The Red Cross reported 18 bodies recovered from the burned-out shell of the downtown Hotel Filipinas and Fire Marshal Francisco Agudon predicted a toll of at least 50 dead.

Typhoon hits Manila

an hour to keep the blaze from spreading to nearby hotels, restaurants, airline offices and shops.

The seven-storey hotel caught fire shortly before 7 a.m. while many of the guests were asleep. Armando Aquino, 37, an employee, said the blaze started on the fifth floor, quickly engulfed the top three floors and then moved down.

Cause of the fire was not determined.

The number of persons in the building at the time was uncertain. There were reports that about 240 of the 300 rooms were occupied, and 47 survivors were taken to the Hotel Mirador several blocks away. Other survivors were reported to have checked in at other hotels.

Recovery teams brought out a stream of bodies during the afternoon, most of them burned beyond recognition. One fireman said he found about 10 bodies huddled inside one room. Three bodies wrapped in sheets were atop one stretcher. JUMPED TO DEATHS

Two persons jumped to their deaths as cameras of the government television station were trained on them. A Red Cross official said other dead had suffered bone fractures, indicating they, too, jumped.

Survivors reported panic among the guests, and stumbling and falling as they ran down fire escapes.

Meanwhile, Typhoon Kim hit the Luzon coast near the port of Infanta, then veered north away from Manila. Its strongest winds dropped from 215 kilometres and hour to 170.

There were no immediate reports of casualties or damage in the Infanta area, a major ricegrowing region. High waves from Manila Bay knocked down a number of shanties in the Tondo slum area of Manila, and dozens of families were evacuated.

Middle East in conflict

JERUSALEM (AP) — Prime Minister Menachem Begin took Anwar Sadat up on his offer to visit Israel and invited the Egyptian president to address the Israeli parliament.

Begin spoke Sunday, the same day bombs killed two Arabs in Jerusalem and a spokesman for the Palestine Liberation Organization endorsed a recent Soviet-U.S. declaration as a basis for a new Geneva peace conference.

"If President Sadat wants an official invitation from me, he has it," Begin told reporters after the weekly meeting of his cabinet. But "this gesture should not be exaggerated; President Sadat has not yet decided to come," Begin said.

Twice last week, Sadat expressed willingness to go to Israel if his trip would give impetus to the Geneva conference he and President Carter are so eager to have convened this year. But he told visiting U.S. congressmen Saturday that he had not been officially invited.

SENDS CARTER NAME — Sadat also said Saturday he has sent Carter the name of a Palestinian-American professor who would be acceptable to PLO leader Yasser Arafat as the representative of the Palestinians at Geneva. The Israeli foreign minister rejected the proposal, but Begin said: "If it comes to a concrete proposal, connected with a name, we must first hear the name in order to make a decision."

Sadat did not identify the professor but said he is a U.S. citizen. However, informed sources in Cairo said he is a PLO member, and Begin reiterated Israel's refusal to negotiate with PLO delegates at Geneva.

Said Kamal, head of the PLO's Cairo office, told a meeting of Arab foreign ministers in Tunis Sunday that his organization is prepared to cooperate in new Geneva talks if the United Nations invites Palestinian representatives on the basis of the Soviet-U.S. declaration.

The document, issued in New York by U.S. State Secretary Cyrus Vance and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, called for resumption of the Geneva talks before the end of the year with Palestinian statement," Kamal said. "We agree to participate in the Geneva peace conference provided UN Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim, in the name of the two superpowers, invites the representatives of the Palestinian people as part of the Arab delegation to the conference," Kamal said.

Marxist Palestinians of the Popular Democratic Front for the Liberation of Palestine claimed responsibility for the two bombs that exploded Sunday in Jerusalem and said they were in retaliation for the Israeli air strikes that killed 110 Palestinians and Lebanese in southern Lebanon last week.

One bomb, in the Old City's Christian quarter, ripped through the top floor of a two-story building, killed an Arab student and wounded four persons. The second bomb exploded about three hours later in the Jewish suburb of Talpiot across the street from a nursery school. An Arab teen-ager was killed and a man was injured.

Prince Charles older

LONDON (Reuter) — Prince Charles spent a quiet day at Windsor Castle today, celebrating his 29th birthday.

The heir to the British throne had suffered during the weekend from an attack of food poisoning he contracted in Australia.

The prince returned last week from a 24-day tour of the United States and Australia and will inspect the Welsh Guards in West Germany at the end of this week.

His break in England probably was arranged to coincide with the birth of a child to sister Princess Anne. The birth is expected in the next few days.

Many Britons, spurred on by the popular press, have long delighted in speculation over who will marry Prince Charles and become their next queen.

Anti-dam film

PRINCE GEORGE, B.C. (CP) — The British Columbia Wildlife Federation unveiled a $30,000 film Saturday in its campaign against a dam on the McGregor River, about 80 kilometres east of this central B.C. city.

The proposed dam, being studied by B.C. Hydro, would divert water from the McGregor River away from the Fraser and into the Williston Reservoir where it would be used to increase power production on the W.A.C. Bennett Dam on the Peace River.

About 70 people saw the 22-minute film, written and narrated by Mike Halleran, a former CBC producer.

Bill Otway, director of the 21,000-member federation, said the film is the best way to get across his organization's concern.

"You can talk to people and write a million words on something like this," he said, "but when you can actually see the damage it makes all the difference in the world."

Parachute fails but jumper walks away

A parachutist whose chute failed to open during an in-air jump was uninjured when his secondary chute opened. Bill Nurrhead of Kitimat had descended in the area of the drop zone, a half mile from Northwest Community College on Halliwell, at about 3:30 yesterday afternoon when the first chute failed. Terrace RCMP and search and rescue team were called, but Nurrhead was found at the school and the rescue team was not required. He had landed south of the railway tracks and had gotten a ride back to the school.

Terrorists have capacity for chemical warfare

WASHINGTON (AP) — A U.S. government scientist says it is possible terrorists can carry out mass annihilation with nuclear weapons or biological or chemical agents.

"There is no doubt that mass annihilation is feasible, and resourceful, technically-oriented thugs are capable of doing it," Robert Kupperman wrote in a report released during the weekend by the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration (LEAA).

"The techniques for control and detection of nuclear materials are much better than those for chemical or biological agents," he wrote. "Chemicals of great toxicity are so widely used in farm and factory that preventing access to such agents by potential terrorists is an unachievable goal."

Playgirl centrefold

Modelling ruins life

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Three years ago, gym teacher Lou Zivkovich doffed his clothes to become a Playgirl magazine centrefold. His wife left him, his school tried to fire him and he now has two lawsuits in the works.

On the plus side, the centrefold Playgirl's 1974 Man of the Year some television and commercial parts, friendship with Mae West and a second marriage to a former Miss Arizona. But he says now he'd rather get into show business through an agent.

The 35-year-old high school physical education teacher says he expected some public notice, but nothing like the "disaster" that resulted when the magazine arrived on the newsstands of Apple Valley, a desert town of 1,000 about 110 kilometres (75 miles) northeast of here.

"I thought there was nothing to it; I had told school authorities," he said in a recent telephone interview. He received $1,000 and an enjoyable weekend in Hawaii to pose for the photos.

The magazine came out just as spring term ended, giving parents the pictures showing their sons' nude teacher sailing a boat and frolicking in the surf and a story describing how students discussed sex problems with him.

BLOCK DISMISSAL — The school board voted to fire Zivkovich, a decision overturned by a three-member appeals court.

But the school district refused to restore him as tennis coach and department chairman. Zivkovich has filed a suit in San Bernardino Superior Court seeking $8,000 in back pay for the extra duties taken from him. The matter will be heard in December or January. He also has pending a $2-million invasion-of-privacy suit in Los Angeles Superior Court against Playgirl. He claims the article that accompanied the photos was tasteless and fabricated.

The story talks about a "restless" six-foot-four 216-pound young man who played Canadian professional football, fought off groupies and tried to avoid bar brawls.

The article did not mention Zivkovich's wife and two children. His wife was not amused. They were divorced in 1975.

The entire experience "really changed my life," Zivkovich said, especially the "interesting people" he has met. He married one of them, Sherry Love, last December.

But despite the benefits, Zivkovich says, "If I had to do it over again, I wouldn't."

Sisters fight fires

CLARENDON HEIGHTS, Ill. (AP) — Their father was a fire chief and their childhood home once doubled as a fire station. So sisters Diana Casey and Debbie Jeffrey feel they're just doing what comes naturally—fighting fires.

The women are members of the volunteer fire department of this unincorporated area west of Chicago.

"For three years the fire department was in our home until a station could be built," says Mrs. Casey, 26, mother of two.

"The whole fire department system was at the house—a couple of fire engines, six phones and a 100-foot siren tower in the back yard. Fire drills were held at the house every Friday night."

Now the sisters are going through what might be called a second childhood.

"We answer more than a dozen emergency calls a month, either for ambulance service or firefighting," says Mrs. Jeffrey, who works for a chemical company. "Occasionally, Diana and I wind up on the same fire truck answering an alarm. And we're together at fire drills on Friday and Sunday."

Like the other 30 volunteers, the sisters are on call around the clock and are placed on alert by remote telephone pagers—or respond to the fire siren. Their firefighting gear is kept at the station.

"We're trained in all facets of firefighting, and we're both practising for licences to drive the fire trucks, like we do the ambulance," Mrs. Casey says.

"Sometimes, I'll be out fighting fires early in the morning before I go to work," says Mrs. Jeffrey. "Helping out in emergencies is a good way to start the day."

Help wanted

SYDNEY (AP) — Australia's secret intelligence agency recently condemned in a government study as incompetent, poorly led and antiquated, has turned to the help-wanted columns of newspapers to recruit a new crop of spies.

"Officers can be expected to undertake duties directly related to statutory responsibilities in regard to espionage, sabotage, and subversion," said a recent advertisement.

Applicants must be 21 or over, have a university degree, preferably in the social sciences, and be stable, mature, discreet and objective.

The salary for apprentice spies is about $12,000 a year.

An Australian Security Intelligence Organization official, contacted at the ASIO headquarters in Melbourne, confirmed the ad had run in major Australian newspapers but refused to say how many spies the agency wants.

"I cannot make any comment beyond what it says in the ad," he said. Until recently, the organization's existence was never mentioned. Then hard times, in the form of a 2½-year government study, befell the organization.

Last October, a royal commission on security and intelligence released a blistering report that found the ASIO to be an incompetent and bungling organization, with poor leadership and morale.

But the commission said Australia was seriously threatened by spies, foreign agents, sabotage and subversion—the claimed the Soviet embassy alone had nine agents—and recommended a bigger budget and more staff for the organization.

CANADA VS. THE OTHER SIDE.

To paraphrase the "Grass-is-Greener" adage, there are many Canadians who believe that air fares are cheaper on "the other side." The facts are that regular economy air fares in Canada are considerably lower than those of the European scheduled airlines within Europe.

The comparisons shown in the box below demonstrate that this difference applies both on short and long distance flights.

CANADA VS. EUROPE REGULAR FARES*
Route	Return Mileage (miles)	Return Fare $ Cdn.	Cost per mile
London-Paris	430	135	31.4
Sudbury-Toronto	422	88	20.9
Rome-London	1792	413	23.0
Windsor-Winnipeg	1720	194	11.3
Paris-Nice	862	209	24.2
Edmonton-Regina	858	124	14.5

HOW DO CANADA'S AIR FARES COMPARE WITH THOSE OF THE UNITED STATES?

Again, many Canadians believe that air fares in the United States are much cheaper than Canadian airfares. However, a comparison of regular economy fares, over routes of similar mileage, shows that U.S. fares are only fractionally more economical. A demonstration of this follows.

CANADA VS. U.S. REGULAR FARES*
Route	Return Mileage (miles)	Return Fare $ Cdn.	Cost per mile
Denver-Phoenix	1180	153	13.0
Montreal-Halifax	1000	136	13.6
Washington-Grand Rapids	1026	141	13.7
Thunder Bay-Toronto	1130	146	12.9
Chicago-Phoenix	2874	286	9.9
Ottawa-Saskatoon	2954	294	10.0
New York-San Francisco	5156	453	8.8
Fredericton-Vancouver	5270	464	8.8

THE COST OF RUNNING AIRLINES: CANADA VS. UNITED STATES.

How is it that the U.S. airlines are able to maintain these lower prices? There are many reasons, not the least of which is fuel costs. In the U.S. jet fuel costs an average of 43.4 cents per Imperial gallon. Here in Canada that same gallon costs an average of 53.6 cents. In Canada, aircraft and spare parts cost more. Landing fees and terminal charges are more expensive. Another point, all Canadian airlines have to keep going while "Old Man Winter" tries to make things difficult. That means special winterized equipment, de-icing of aircraft and you can imagine the heating bill for a hanger that's big enough to hold an aircraft for maintenance. Every Canadian knows that winter is expensive.

PROMOTIONAL FARES.

Despite the many advantages that help give the U.S. airlines a marginal regular fare superiority, Canada's scheduled airlines still hold the edge, in many cases, with promotional fares. These fares, such as Charter Class Fares, do enable Canadians to fly many routes at rates even lower than those available to American travellers.

CANADA VS. U.S. PROMOTIONAL FARES*
Route	Return Mileage (miles)	Return Fare $ Cdn.	Cost per mile
Denver-Phoenix	1180	122	10.4
Montreal-Halifax	1000	102	10.2
Washington-Grand Rapids	1026	112	10.9
Thunder Bay-Toronto	1130	95	8.4
Chicago-Phoenix	2874	214	7.5
Ottawa-Saskatoon	2954	178	6.0
New York-San Francisco	5156	271 (Mon-Fri)	4.8
		295 (Sat-Sun)	5.3
Fredericton-Vancouver	5270	263	5.0

While Canada's scheduled airlines pay substantially higher costs than many of our competitors, the foregoing tables show that by international comparisons, Canadians still enjoy some of the lowest airfares in the world.

B.C. Liberals get party organized in case of election

By GEOFF MEGGS
VANCOUVER (CP) — The Liberal Party's British Columbia election machine, painstakingly rebuilt from the shattered ruins left by Premier Bill Bennett's smashing 1975 election victory, was pronounced ready for action during the weekend at the party's annual convention.

But while the revitalized troops expect to see action first in a provincial byelection under B.C. leader Gordon Gibson, it is the federal arena they are really training for.

Gibson acknowledged as much Saturday in his only major address to the convention, when he faced two critical tests in the coming months.

The first will be the provincial byelection to replace former Progressive Conservative leader Scott Wallace in Oak Bay. The second and more important battle is an expected 1978 federal election in which Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau will seek a mandate to keep Quebec in Confederation.

PRIME CONCERN
"We are fighting provincially for the life of our party and federally for the life of the nation," Gibson said, but the federal battle was the first concern of the 538 delegates to the three-day meeting.

Of 87 resolutions debated in the convention, more than 60 per cent related solely to proposed federal initiatives in the fields of inter-provincial affairs, language rights, transportation and the national economy.

Saturday's constituency workshops focussed exclusively on new federal election regulations and their impact in British Columbia.

Party campaign experts went over every aspect of the new rules, hammering home the need for early fundraising and careful accounting.

From his opening address Friday morning to his closing remarks Sunday afternoon, thanking the party's outgoing B.C. president, federal Justice Minister Ron Basford was a major presence, attacking the national Conservative opposition, boosting Gibson's leadership and working to preserve the harmony and good humor that marked the convention.

CAUCUS HEAD
Basford, member for Vancouver-Centre, is the head of the government's B.C. caucus and a virtual shadow leader of the provincial party.

The next federal election is important not only because of the Quebec question, he said, but because of the opportunity to send a record number of Liberals to Parliament from B.C.

The Liberals hold eight of the province's 23 seats in the current Parliament but hope to double that number when distribution gives the province 28 members.

To meet the objective, party organizers urged local associations to fill campaign coffers now and recruit good candidates for an election that could come early next year.

In the only strife of the three-day convention, Shaun Sullivan, seen as a representative of the Basford-centred group in the B.C. party, ousted incumbent Evelyn Rosborough from the provincial presidency.

But Gibson said in an interview Sunday that the Oak Bay contest remains a critical test, despite the federal emphasis of the convention.

"If we have a chance anywhere in the province, it's in Oak Bay," he said, noting that the riding voted Liberal for many years and may resent the nomination of new Conservative leader Vic Stephens.

The party to beat is Social Credit, he said, and a Liberal victory will be a "serious indication of what the people of the province think of a third party."

Author-historian T.W. Paterson dropped into Winterland General Store Wednesday to sign copies of his latest popular history book, Canadian Battles and Massacres. With his publisher Garnet Basque, Paterson, who lives in Cobble Hill near Victoria, tries to write works that are entertaining first and informative second. So far, he's written 11 books in five years, basing much of his research of the nine years he spent freelancing for magazines, mostly in the U.S., because Canadian magazines weren't interested until recently. Paterson, who has a huge library at his home and clips several daily newspapers as sources of information, writes a weekly column for the Victoria Colonist, mostly to keep his name in the public mind so people with stories to tell will call on him. He says he hates stumping around the country autographing books, however, but loves talking to people who know local history.

Somalia mad at Soviets and Cubans

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — Somalia, angry at the Soviet Union's tilt toward rival Ethiopia, is expelling the Russian navy from its chief bases on the Horn of Africa and ordering thousands of Russian advisers out of the East African country, Radio Somalia has announced.

The broadcast Sunday said the Marxist government is also renouncing the 1974 friendship treaty with the Soviet Union and ordering a reduction in the Russian embassy staff in Mogadishu, the Somali capital.

Somalia has been the Soviet Union's chief ally in East Africa since 1969. But recently Moscow has been pouring arms into Ethiopia and denying them to Somalia in an attempt to end the rebellion in Ethiopia's Ogaden region by Somali tribesmen who want to join the territory to neighboring Somalia.

Somalia says that the Marxist military regime in Addis Ababa is also being aided in the Ogaden war by Cuban troops, an accusation that Cuba denies.

WARNED OF DANGER
Neither Moscow nor Havana had immediate comment on the Somali action. But Somali President Mohammed Siad Barre had repeatedly warned the Russians that the Soviet-Somali alliance was in danger, and the announcement Sunday was no surprise.

It has appeared for some time that the Russians thought either that the Somalis would not go so far or that Ethiopia would prove a more valuable ally. But with much of Ethiopia in revolt and the ruling military clique in Addis Ababa a hotbed of dissension, the Kremlin may have made a serious miscalculation.

Information Minister Abdulqadir Salad Hasan announced that the Russian military and technical experts in Somalia, believed to number between 3,000 and 4,000, have seven days to leave the country. He said the Cuban embassy staff has to get out in 48 hours.

Abdulqadir said Russian use of Somali facilities "on land and sea" would end immediately.

The Russian navy's Indian Ocean fleet has been using the port of Berbera, on the Gulf of Aden in northern Somalia, and Kismayu, on the southern coast. Western experts say the Russians also had missile storage silos at Berbera. Somalia exchanged these facilities for Russian weapons and training for the Somali armed forces.

ATTACK FEARED
Abdulqadir said the Soviet Union and Cuba have "brazenly interfered" in the Ogaden war. He repeated his government's charge that the supplies of "military assistance and personnel" to Ethiopia herald an attack against Somalia in the future.

Somalia says between 7,000 and 15,000 Cuban troops are in Ethiopia, but both Ethiopia and Cuba deny this. Western diplomats in Ethiopia's capital, Addis Ababa, say they believe there are only 200 to 400 Cuban military advisers in the country.

Somalia in turn denies that its army is fighting in the Ogaden desert of southeast Ethiopia although it admits to arming and aiding the rebels, who are Somali tribesmen. The rebels now are believed to control 90 per cent of the territory and need only the cities of Dire Dawa and Harar to drive the Ethiopian army from the region. But some foreign military experts believe the recent Russian aid may enable the Ethiopians to regain control.

Saturday's constituency workshops focussed exclusively on new federal election regulations and their impact in British Columbia.

Party campaign experts went over every aspect of the new rules, hammering home the need for early fund-

New York dockworkers almost ready to settle

NEW YORK (AP) — Tentative settlement of a 44-day longshoremen's strike in U.S. North Atlantic ports is expected to lead to settlements along the South Atlantic and Gulf of Mexico coasts. But no matter what develops, dock workers are not expected back on the job before next weekend.

Union and shipping negotiators for striking Gulf coast and South Atlantic coast ports were to meet today on the three-year pact that was reached Sunday between the International Longshoremen's Association (ILA) and the New York Shippers Association. The accord covers ports from Maine to Virginia, but was expected to set the pattern for the other ports. The agreement calls for a 30-per-cent wage-benefit boost over the length of the contract, raising the hourly wage to $10.40 by the third year from the current $8 an hour.

Thomas Gleason, ILA president, said Sunday that no increase in shipping costs would be necessary because of the pay increases because "productivity has gone up 1,500 per cent" through automation. There was no immediate comment from the shippers.

In addition to voting on the master agreement, dockers in the various ports also will be voting on separate contracts with local shipping groups on such issues as a guaranteed annual income and job security.

Golden eggs or job creation?

"Why don't they create more jobs?" I've heard that question. You've heard the question and, at some time or toter, we have probably all asked it.

Who are "They"? Why should they create more jobs and what is in it for them? This applies whether we consider them as being the government or the private sector. If we expect the government to create more jobs, by "make work" projects or by assisting industrial endeavours, we must realise who is paying for it — US!

Our problem may be deciding whether we would increase U.I.C. payments to people wanting work or spend the money creating jobs. Note the emphasis on the word WE, government has only one source of income, you and me. It does not have to balance its books, nor make a profit; in fact, its damned if it does and damned if it doesn't.

So why don't the big — and the not-so-big companies (the private sector) expand their operations and make more jobs? Simply because, at this time, they would lose money. The use of industrial plant is running about 85 per cent of its capacity. Common sense says owners would be foolish to build more unless they are sure that, in a short time, new capacity would be paying its way. That feeling does not exist at present and owners are protecting their capital — and their profits — by operating at less than 100 per cent.

It is easy to say that all that is needed is to boost sales. Yes, that is all that is needed. Sell more, find a greater demand. There's the difficulty. Markets are slow in Canada, there is too great a fear of unemployment and inflation, too little confidence for consumers to increase their spending.

Why not sell abroad? Yes, why not? Our Premier has just returned from a sales trip in Europe, seeking new customers for our industry.

Like many simple solutions, there is a BUT — our materials and goods are not selling in some areas because our prices are not competitive. Our falling dollar cannot offset the high wages and salaries reflected in the price of our exports and we have priced ourselves out of many markets.

The other villain accused is profit. Business and companies are started with one intention, to make money, to make a profit. There is no reason to apologise for this, profit is the incentive for taking the risk of buying or starting a business. It is the incentive, the possible reward, for putting up money and taking time or using talent to operate a business. A business which will provide jobs for those who cannot, or do not wish, to be self-employed.

This all sounds very reasonable, doesn't it? And yet profit has risen to the top of most lists of dirty words. It sits like Pigpen, the character in the comic strip Peanuts, over in the far corner, unloved and untouched, with a black cloud hovering over it.

The misconceptions about profit are even more numerous than the cast of Charlie Brown. A Gallup Poll published recently found that 3 out of 4 people believe that profits exceed 20 per cent of gross sales. That is, that an item selling for $100 returns a profit of $20 to a retailer. Far from being the truth, the Grocery Manufacturers' Association states that its industry profit margin is less than 3 per cent. In the daily press we are informed that the forestry industry makes less than a nickel on its dollar sale. Other industries will produce similar figures.

Company profits partly finance expansion of plant and capacity, they help build new stores and assist the development of new areas.

A negative attitude to profit will not help expansion and job creation. Profit is an essential part of business and industry. They need it. We must appreciate and understand this for unless there are profits, all our jobs are on the line.

Quebec election anniversary

Levesque recalls first year as government

QUEBEC (CP) — Countries cannot neglect their economy for long before others "literally clean them out," Premier Rene Levesque warned on the eve of his Parti Quebecois government's first anniversary.

In an hour-long interview in the squat concrete block housing the premier's office across the street from the national assembly Levesque spoke of the hazards and hopes lining the road to Quebec independence.

Continued economic stagnation will hurt any government, he acknowledged. But the premier rejected the notion that unemployment or inflation will automatically work against the PQ in its independence campaign.

Economic woes might rather prove the undoing of federalist forces since the electorate is beginning to understand that managing the economy is primarily Ottawa's responsibility, he said.

Sporting in his lapel the insignia of the Legion d'honneur, the mark of esteem he received from French President Valery Giscard d'Estaing in Paris two weeks ago, Levesque talked almost incessantly through the interview, puffing on cigarette after cigarette, impatiently waving away the ashes as they dropped.

He warned that Quebec "is in danger of becoming a society of pampered kids," trusting in outsiders, notably the United States, for economic salvation.

NO HAND-OUTS

"Nothing is going to be handed to us on a silver platter," the premier said in an appeal to business and labor to accept the sacrifices inherent in "working a little more and producing a little more."

The PQ will spend the next year putting the finishing touches on its plan for political independence coupled with a Canadian economic common market, he said.

But the government will not make its referendum on independence the sole objective, to the detriment of economic and social policy, he said.

Levesque singled out a program guaranteeing free drugs for senior citizens as the one achievement which "satisfied me most" during the government's first year in office.

On a political level, he expressed pride in Bill 2, the law which reformed the financing of Quebec's political parties, outlawing corporate donations and strictly limiting personal contributions.

Among disappointments, he listed the fuss surrounding the government's Charter of the French Language (Bill 101). That hubbub overshadowed all else the government did, he complained.

But the language law itself was no disappointment, and now that the first traumatic movements are passed, the law seems to be getting the "even break" which he asked the public to give it, the premier said.

NOT AFTER POWER

Levesque dismissed the accusations of some, including writer Pierre Vallieres, a former member of the Front de Liberation du Quebec who repudiated violence in 1971 and rallied to the Parti Quebecois, that the government has become more attached to power than to the cause of political sovereignty.

But he also rejected federalist suggestions that the government has already begun acting as if Quebec is separate from Canada.

His government is steering a middle course toward sovereignty-association, he said.

Despite the "negative common front" of other provincial premiers against economic association with an independent Quebec, Levesque said he was heartened by the recent statements of Premier Richard Hatfield of New Brunswick, recognizing that some form of association may have merits.

Levesque said he obtained solid support from Quebec on his recent visit to France, where the reaction he got "proves that we'll be far from standing alone when the changes that must come, do come."

Other trips abroad may be in the offing, including a possible visit to French-speaking African countries next year, Levesque said.

In the economic sphere, he boasted of the government's success in cutting back on borrowing this year and hinted, as Finance Minister Jacques Parizeau has done, at the possibility of income tax cuts in the next budget.

Unemployment remains the stickler. Despite the government's efforts, the jobless rate climbed to a record high of 11.4 per cent last month.

The federal government, however, has a crucial role to play in this since it controls major economic tools such as tariffs and fiscal and monetary policy, Levesque said.

Iona Campagnolo, MP

In 1978, the maximum for weekly insurable earnings will rise from $220 weekly to $240. This means that the maximum benefit an unemployment insurance claimant can get rises from $147 weekly this year to $160 in 1978. Minimum weekly insurable earnings in 1978 will be $48 across Canada, as compared to $44 in 1977.

Employees and employers will pay higher maximums to cover these increases, but the basic employer will remain at $2.10 per $100.00 of each employee's insurable earnings. Employer's maximum premiums for each employee will rise, from $4.62 weekly in 1977 to $5.04 in 1978. Employee's maximum premiums will increase from $3.30 weekly in 1977 to $3.60 in 1978.

In 1977, the Unemployment Insurance program will pay out an estimated $4 billion in benefits to about 2.6 million claimants.

In other areas, I want to inform you that loan ceilings for the federal government's Farm Improvement, Fisheries Improvement, and Small Business Loans Acts have all been raised from $50,000 to $75,000 effective immediately.

British Columbians have made very good use of these three separate programs in past years and I hope many of you will continue to take advantage of these development opportunities and low interest rates. Loans under the three acts, administered by the Department of Finance, are repayable over a period up to 10 years at rates as low as 9 per cent.

British Columbians borrowed over $17.6 million under these programs in 1976.

The Canada Employment and Immigration Commission wants to expand the number of participants in the federal Job Experience and Training (JET) Program this year and plans to inject up to $150 million into the project this winter.

JET began last winter as a pilot program designed to provide recent school leavers, who were unable to find work, with a period of subsidized employment so that they could gain essential work experience and training. The number of participants will expand this year according to Ottawa sources, just as fast as federal officials can persuade private employers to take the young people on staff.

The program runs from September to May and will focus on those between the ages of 15 and 24 who have been out of school between three and 24 months. The federal government will subsidize this form of on-the-job training for up to 26 weeks this winter. That is up from 9 weeks last year.

If you have any comments on the above or other matters, please write to me, care of the House of Commons, Ottawa K1A 0X2.

Tax problems aren't going away

Prince George —

Pereennial budget delays coupled with legislative overkill and attention to "inconsequential" tax problems are distracting the country from productive effort, a leading chartered accountant said today.

Dennis F. Culver, president of the Institute of Chartered Accountants of British Columbia, told the Rotary Club here that the federal government has begun to show some attention to major problems, but is still spending too much effort on trying to plug all the tax loopholes and issuing too much paper on non-productive measures.

He cited two recent budget moves that he said will require a lot of time and attention. One is the new insulation grant, which will be taxed as though received by the higher-income spouse, and the student education allowance, which will require a new certificate to be prepared by universities and signed and filed by Canada's 600,000 post-secondary students.

"Complying with these changes, which require much attention to detail, will be wasteful and irritating and they exemplify an insensitivity to real world conditions," Culver told the Rotarians.

"We need the same kind of leadership and courage as the businessman shows who operates on a balanced budget, who cuts his costs in adversity, and who expects his government to cut its costs, too," Culver said.

"I'd love to buy a new car, but I get car-sick... every time I hear the price."

South African policies not change despite arms embargo

JOHANNESBURG

(AP) — South Africa's racial policies have brought it under an international arms embargo and there is talk of a ban on trade with the white-ruled country.

But the United Nations arms sanctions voted earlier this month are not expected to have much impact and if public pronouncements are any guide they are not likely to force any significant change in South Africa's internal race policies.

A trade embargo against the most advanced industrial economy in Africa is considered highly unlikely at this time, and it would probably do more harm to South Africa's trading partners than they can afford.

In fact, politicians, diplomats, academics and other observers here generally agree that only a total and extended oil embargo could seriously disrupt South Africa's economy.

The UN Security Council's vote to impose an international embargo against sales of arms to South Africa was the stiffest action yet against Pretoria's race policies. The measure was prompted by South Africa's crackdown against the black consciousness movement following a wave of violence over the death of black leader Steve Biko in police detention last September.

But rather than moderate its policies, South Africa's response has been more arrests and the assumption of war-time powers to force any company operating in the country to produce strategic and military goods on demand.

OWN ARMS INDUSTRY

A potential nuclear power, South Africa's own arms industry can overwhelm virtually anything the country's blackruled neighbors can muster, the country's leaders believe.

While South Africa claims to produce 90 per cent of its military needs, independent analysts say the figure is closer to 75 per cent.

But South Africa's armaments industry appears capable of producing everything needed for conventional war, from light arms and armored cars to artillery and ground-to-air missiles.

No statistics are published to indicate how much of South Africa's $1.9-billion defence budget goes towards importing arms. But with an estimated 362 combat aircraft, including French Mirage fighter-bombers, an army of 41,000 backed by 130,000 reservists and a modest navy, the country's defence against threats from black Africa seems secure.

R.W. Johnson, author of the recently-published book How Long Can South Africa Survive, writes: "The weaponry in which she isn't self-sufficient—for example the next generation of jet fighters and so forth—she won't feel the need for a while yet."

Some observers here note that economic sanctions, such as those imposed on white-ruled Rhodesia, are never total and believe South Africa will be able to meet some of its military needs through international arms dealers or sympathetic third-party countries.

'BOOMERANG' EFFECT

But the likelihood of a total trade embargo is dismissed here for two reasons:

—South Africa's vast mineral wealth, including gold, diamonds, chrome and uranium, will always find markets in the world.

—The repercussions on the United States, Europe and Japan of a trade boycott could have serious domestic economic and foreign policy implications.

"The threat of sanctions and boycotts need not alarm us unduly," says Finance Minister Owen Horwood. "Common sense and simple economic facts make it unlikely, if not impossible, for total isolation of South Africa."

For example, South Africa's mineral production includes 90 per cent of the world's chrome, 70 per cent of the world's gold, 50 per cent of the world's gem diamonds and 16 per cent of the world's uranium. It is the "boomerang" effect on countries imposing a trade embargo on which South Africa counts the most.

Official figures here show that Western countries had a favorable trade balance with South Africa last year of $1 billion.

A trade boycott would mean a loss to countries exporting to South Africa and could aggravate unemployment in the U.S., South Africa's biggest trading partner, as well as Britain, France and other countries, South African officials and economists believe.

The newspaper Pretoria News quoted a U.S. government economist as estimating more than 50,000 American jobs depend on U.S. exports to South Africa.

In addition, British companies alone have poured more than $4 billion into South Africa over the years while the figure for the U.S. is estimated at $1.7 billion.

An oil blockade of South Africa is regarded here as potentially the most serious threat to the country. Several countries, led by Zambia, are pushing for just such a boycott.

While South Africa has stockpiled in abandoned coal mines enough oil for 2½ years of consumption at current rates, the country could not survive indefinitely even with the help of its sophisticated oil-from-coal plants.

But the shah of Iran, South Africa's chief supplier of oil, has shown no signs of favoring an oil embargo.

Lions come close to losing crucial game

By GRANT KERR
VANCOUVER (CP) — There were times Saturday when Leon Bright was anything but a shining light for British Columbia Lions in their Western Football Conference semi-final playoff game against Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

Three times the rookie from Florida State fumbled; three times the Bombers turned the miscues into points—15 of them, in fact, and Winnipeg seemed ready to advance to the WFC final against Edmonton Eskimos.

But, suddenly, the man called Neon Leon by team-mates lit up the hearts of 27,150 fans at Empire Stadium as he grabbed a pass from quarterback Jerry Tagge and raced 49 yards for the winning touchdown as B.C. won 33-32 in a dramatic sudden-death game.

"I take all the credit for those fumbles Leon made," said head coach Vic Rapp of the Lions. "Here's a rookie under tremendous pressure, but nobody gave up on him today."

Tagge showed his confidence in Leon by going to him when it really counted.

LONG WAIT OVER

Bright scored the winning touchdown at 12:18 of the fourth quarter to advance the Lions to the WFC final for the first time in 13 years. They won the Grey Cup in 1964, their last final appearance.

The Eskimos will host the WFC final Nov. 20 at Clarke Stadium. B.C. won two of three games from Edmonton this season.

Saturday's game was played in a driving rain which contributed to six turnovers by each team.

"A lot of strange things happened out there because of field conditions," said head coach Bud Riley of the Bombers. "It was great for the fans."

The Lions got two touchdowns from wide receiver Al Charuk on passes of six and 38 yards from Tagge, with Lui Passaglia adding the other 15 points on four field goals, two converts and a single.

LONG BOMB THREAT

Wide receiver Mike Holmes of Winnipeg also caught two touchdowns passes on throws of 65 and 58 yards from quarterback Ralph Brock. Defensive back Vince Phason ran 82 yards with a fumble recovery for a touchdown and running back Jim Washington scampered three yards for a fourth touchdown.

Bernie Ruoff completed the Winnipeg scoring with a field goal, four converts and a single.

Rapp switched Bright, a college dropout, to running back earlier in the week from wide receiver. Bright carried the ball 15 times for 58 yards and caught four passes for 105 yards as he added some much-needed speed to the B.C. attack.

"I put the guy (Bright) in a heck of a position,"

Rapp said. "He played a tremendous game considering the circumstances."

The Lions had plenty of opportunities to score against Winnipeg as they repeatedly found themselves with excellent field position.

Tagge was unable to finish off many of the chances and Passaglia was good on four of six field goal attempts.

Tagge completed 12 of 25 passes for 231 yards and three touchdowns while throwing two interceptions. He had a fourth touchdown pass, to Charuk, called back because of offensive interference.

DESPERATION BID

Brock completed half his passes, 15 of 30 for 289 yards, with three misses coming on a desperation comeback attempt in the last two minutes. He had two touchdown passes and one interception.

The game was tied 10-10 after the opening quarter and the Lions took a 20-17 lead at the half. Winnipeg was ahead 32-26 after three quarters as Bright fumbled twice late in the quarter, leading to eight Winnipeg points.

A short punt by Ruoff at the five-minute mark of the final quarter after he mishandled a punt snap led to a single by Passaglia and narrowed the Winnipeg lead to five points at 5:12.

The Lions failed to move the ball when they had possession with eight minutes remaining, but four minutes later they got another chance, this time at their own 48 yard line.

Tagge hit fullback Hugh McKinnis with an 11-yard swing pass for a first down at the Winnipeg 51 and McKinnis gained two more yards on a draw play up the middle.

On second and eight from the Winnipeg 49, Tagge suddenly found Bright opened behind Winnipeg defensive back Chuck Willis, who had momentarily slipped on the rain-soaked artificial turf. Bright gathered in Tagge's looping pass at the 30 and raced untouched into the end zone for the deciding score.

The Lions failed to complete a two-point conversions pass in an attempt to stretch their lead to three points.

Winnipeg had the ball twice in the last 2:37, but Brock was unable to get the Bombers close enough for Ruoff to have a shot at a game-winning field goal.

The Bombers had 17 first downs and a net offence of 324 yards, compared to 12 first downs and 270 yards for the Lions.

Washington rushed 17 times for 47 yards and Holmes caught seven passes for 178 yards.

General manager Earl Lunsford of the Bombers said after the game that Riley's future in Winnipeg will be decided early next year.

Riley had speculated last week he would be fired if the Lions upset the Bombers.

Ottawa Roughriders closer to Grey Cup

By ALEX BINKLEY
OTTAWA (CP) — The often criticized Ottawa defence came up with two big plays late in the game to preserve a 21-16 win for Ottawa Rough Riders over Toronto Argonauts Sunday in the Eastern F o o

semi-final.

Mark Mitchell picked off a Clint Longley pass on the sixyard line to snuff out a potential Toronto scoring drive with about four minutes to play. In the last minute of the game Mike Fanucci and Mike Riley combined to force Chuck Ealey to fumble with Fanucci ending up in possession of the ball for Ottawa.

The win moves the Riders, defending Grey Cup champions, into the eastern final next Sunday against Montreal Alouettes in the Olympic stadium. The winner of that game goes to the Grey Cup.

An 86-yard pass and run play from Tom Clements to Ross Clarkson early in the third quarter gave Ottawa the winning points.

Len Platt on a 25-yard pass from Clements and Richard Holmes on a one-yard run accounted for the other Ottawa touchdowns. Gerry Organ converted all three.

RETURNS PICK OFF

Jim Marshall on a 37-yard return of an intercepted Clements pass and Leon McQuay on a nine-yard pass from Longley scored the Toronto touchdowns.

Zenon Andrassyshyn converted both and added two singles on missed field goal attempts.

After McQuay scored at 10:47 of the fourth quarter the listless Argos began to show signs of life which increased when Marshall picked off his second Clements pass on the Ottawa 29 and moved it to the Riders' 15 yard line.

On the next play, Longley aimed a pass for Slade Willis but Mitchell picked it off at the nine. Ottawa couldn't move the ball and Toronto got it at centrefield on the punt.

Ealey then moved the Argos with short passes and straightahead runs to the Ottawa four. But Riley and Fanucci got through the Argos line and Riley turned Ealey around and the ball came loose and Fanucci fell on it ending the Argos 1977 season.

Rough and tumble game

By BILL LEVITT
OTTAWA (CP) — "Super, just super," were defensive coach Bob O'Brien's words to describe two plays that helped Ottawa Rough Riders stave off Toronto Argonauts in the final minutes for a 21-16 win in the Eastern Football Conference semi-final Sunday.

Mark Mitchell picked off a Clint Longley pass deep in Rider territory and Ottawa recovered a Chuck Ealey fumble to ensure the victory and advance the Riders to the eastern final against Montreal Alouettes next Saturday.

"They saved it for the right time," said O'Brien. "Everybody's been criticizing the defence all year for not making the big play."

Mitchell said he was expecting the pass and just laid back.

"We were playing in a three deep and giving them room all afternoon," said the diminutive defensive back. "They threw inside on me and I just grabbed the ball."

Ottawa tackle Mike Fanucci was ecstatic after the game and said all he was trying to do on the fumble recovery was keep Ealey from throwing the football.

GRABS JERSEY

"I took the inside on Mike (Raines) and hit Ealey high," said Fanucci. "I grabbed his jersey and pulled down his shoulders."

Fanucci said he turned around after the tackle and seeing Raines with the ball was "pure ecstasy."

Ottawa quarterback Tom Clements said breaks such as the Ealey fumble are necessary to win games but there was no luck involved in the 86-yard touchdown pass to Ross Clarkson.

"They were double teaming Tony (Gabriel) and when they do that they leave it open for our other receivers," said Clements.

Clements said he faked to halfback Richard Holmes in the flat, looked back to the other side for Gabriel but he was held up at the line of scrimmage.

"I saw Clarkson over the middle and he made a heck of a catch for the touchdown."

Over on the other side of the field, Coach Leo Cahill was glum as he talked to reporters about the loss.

"It was a sad, sad situation," Cahill said. "We talked about the play on the bench during the timeout and it was a simple curl in pattern by both ends."

"I thought we had it."

SCORES FIRST TIME

Ottawa scored the first time it got the ball as Clements marched his squad down the field smartly getting to the oneyard line with a delay pass to Tony Grbsiel. On the next play Holmes went over.

The Toronto offence continued to sputter even after Marshall scored on the interception late in the first quarter.

The Platt touchdown early in the second quarter was set up by a Clarkson catch on the 30-yard line where he was ruled out of bounds although he ran unmolested into the end zone.

The Riders then moved the ball with ease but were unable to score until Clements and Clarkson connected in the third quarter. The Riders had impressive half-time statistics.

But after the Clarkson touchdown, the Argos defence took the steam out of the Riders who seemed to be coasting on their lead. And until McQuay scored, they had little to fear from the inept Toronto offence.

American football

Defensive play strong in American football

Atlanta has had one of the National Football League's best defenses all season. And on Sunday, that same Falcons defence, which has allowed the fewest points in the league, showed it wasn't a bad offence either.

Frustrated week after week by a puncheon attack, the Atlanta defenders took things into their own hands against Detroit Lions, accounting for two fourth-quarter touchdowns in a 17-6 victory that kept the Falcons one game behind Los Angeles Rams in the National Conference West. The Rams whipped the hapless Green Bay Packers 24-6.

In other games, New York's teams split with the two expansion clubs, the Giants shutting out Tampa Bay 10-0 while the Jets absorbed a 17-0 blanking from Seattle Seahawks. Pittsburgh Steelers held off Cleveland Browns 35-31, Washington Redskins edged Philadelphia Eagles 17-14, Baltimore Colts ripped Buffalo Bills 31-13, Miami Dolphins downed New England Patriots 17-5, San Francisco 49ers nipped New Orleans Saints 10-7 in overtime, Chicago Bears slipped by Kansas City Chiefs 28-27, Minnesota Vikings routed Cincinnati Bengals 42-10, Oakland Raiders topped Houston Oilers 34-29 and Denver Broncos rallied for a 17-14 victory over San Diego Chargers.

St. Louis Cardinals play the Cowboys at Dallas on Monday night.

TRAIL AFTER THREE

Trailing 6-0 after three quarters, Atlanta's defenders turned the Detroit game around, with Ralph Ortega returning a fumble 14 yards for a touchdown and Robert Pennywell going 20 yards with an intercepted pass for another score.

The Lions had beaten Atlanta nine consecutive and seemed on the way to No. 10 after Reggie Pinkney's end-zone interception halted a Falcon drive that had reached the Detroit seven-yard line.

But then Ortega scooped up Rick Kane's fumble and took it in for the first touchdown with 8:02 left. Then, in the game's final minute, Pennywell picked off a Greg Landry pass for the Falcons wrapup touchdown.

Los Angeles stayed one game in front, using a ball control game to beat Green Bay. Dave Etemendorf and Pat Thomas set up a touchdown and field goal with long runbacks of Packer turnovers and Pat Haden passed for 146 yards. Green Bay quarterback Lynn Dickey suffered a broken leg on the final play of the game.

Baltimore maintained its one-game lead over Miami in the AFC East by beating Buffalo while the Dolphins were tagging New England with a second consecutive loss.

PICK OFF TWO

The Colts used interceptions by linebackers Ed Simonini and Stan White to set up first half touchdowns by Lydell Mitchell and Roosevelt Leaks to beat the Bills.

The Dolphins got by New England with reserve running back Gary Davis scoring one touchdown and scampering 73 yards on a kickoff return to set up a Garo Yepremian field goal.

Pittsburgh ended a two-game slide and moved into a first place tie in the American Conference Central as Terry Bradshaw passed for three touchdowns to beat Cleveland. But it was a costly victory with Bradshaw, playing with a cast on his broken left wrist, was forced to leave the game when he injured his left shoulder.

The Steelers built a 35-10 lead and then had to hold off a furious Cleveland comeback sparked by three touchdown passes by reserve quarterback Dave Mays to running back Larry Poole. Mays was replacing regular Brian Sipe, also forced to the sidelines with an injured shoulder.

Haven Moses caught two touchdown passes from Craig Morton, the last one with 1:18 remaining to carry Denver over San Diego. The Chargers held a 14-3 halftime lead but the Broncos rallied on Morton touchdown passes of 33 and eight yards.

The victory kept Denver tied for first place in the AFC west with Oakland. The defending Super Bowl-champion Raiders came from behind three times to overtake Houston.

Clarence Davis's three-yard touchdown in the third period put Oakland ahead to stay.

Minnesota's Fran Tarkenton set an NFL accuracy mark, completing 17 of 18 passes for 195 yards to ignite the Vikings romp over Cincinnati. Tarkenton, who holds most of pro football's passing records, injured his right ankle late in the third quarter and was carried off on a stretcher.

Chuck Foreman scored three TDs and rushed for 133 yards for Minnesota, now two games ahead of Detroit in the NFC Central division.

The day's most dramatic finish came in Chicago, where Bob Avellini threw a 37-yard touchdown pass to Greg Latta with three seconds left to play, supplying the Bears with their one-point victory over Kansas City. The winning score came just 21 seconds after Ed Podolak's 14-yard touchdown had moved Kansas City into a 27-21 lead.

Chicago's Walter Payton scored three TDs and rushed for 192 yards, pushing his season's total to 1,129.

WIN FOURTH IN ROW

San Francisco, which lost its first five games, won its fourth in a row, using Ray Werschling's 33-yard field goal in overtime to edge New Orleans. Backfield partners Wilbur Jackson and Del Williams did the heavy work for the 49ers. Jackson carried 24 times for 108 yards and Williams gained 110 in 25 carries.

San Francisco guard Cas Banaszak broke his leg and, like Green Bay's Dickey, will miss the remainder of the season.

Mark Moseley's 54-yard field goal with 3:41 left to play lifted Washington past Philadelphia. The Eagles drove back but Horst Muhlmann's 31-yard field goal try with 18 seconds left failed and the Redskins had their victory.

Tampa Bay lost its 23rd consecutive game over two seasons, bowing to New York Giants. The Bucs were inside the Giants 15-yard line five times but couldn't manage a single point. New York's only touchdown came on Bobby Hammond's short plunge after a bad snap on a punt gave the Giants possession at the Tampa Bay one.

Jim Zorn threw a pair of touchdown passes and Seattle's defence blanked the Jets for the first shutout in the expansion team's history. The Seahawks had 445 yards in total offence compared with 124 for the Jets.

Richer after tennis game

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — Argentina's Guillermo Vilas won the $50,000 Orient International Cup on Sunday, beating Spain's Jose Higueras 6-1, 6-2, 6-3.

Higueras, who qualified for the final with a victory over Brazil's Carlos Kirmayr, said: "Three times already I've been beaten by Vilas so far this year. Without discussion, Vilas is the best tennis player in the world."

Record breaking run

AUCKLAND (Reuter) — Australian Dave Chettle recorded the world's best time of two hours, two minutes and 24 seconds for a marathon Sunday but his record-breaking performance was overshadowed by doubts about the length of the course.

Twelve of the starters, including second-place Franco Fava of Italy and third-place Ian Thompson of Britain, shattered the previous world best of 2:08.33 recorded by Australian Derek Clayton in 1969.

The brilliant times immediately raised doubts about the length of the flat, waterfront course. Officials said it was measured to international rules but a traffic officer, who later rode his motorcycle around the course, said his speedometer showed it to be 600 metres (646 yards) short of the standard marathon distance of 41.195 kilometres. (26 miles and 385 yards).

Chettle finished one second ahead of Fava, while Thompson had a time of 2:03.31.

Thompson said it was a pity there would always be doubts about the distance because even if another kilometre. (0.621 miles) had been run the times would still have been the fastest ever for a marathon.

Gymnastic honours all go to young entrants

NAGOYA, Japan (CP) — Shigeru Kasamatsu, Japan's national champion, clinched the men's title and 13-year-old Svetlana Agapova of the Soviet Union won the women's division at the Chunichi Cup international gymnastics meet Sunday.

Thirteen-year-old Elfi Schlegel of Toronto finished fourth in the women's section with 37.20 points from four events. She was fourth in the vault, third in the uneven bars, eighth on the balance beam and 10th in floor exercise. She was the only non-Eastern bloc women's gymnast to place in the top seven.

Agapova won the women's title in the nine-country competition with 37.95 points, defeating second-place Steffi Kraker of East Germany who had 37.90 points. The Soviet Union's Natalya Shaposhnikova was third with 37.70 points.

Agapova started slowly with a fifth in the vault but then had a third on the uneven bars and a second on the balance beam. She scored a 9.55 on the balance beam and 9.60 in the floor exercise to move to first from third.

"I made a few mistakes," said Schlegel, who was third Saturday. "But I'm happy with my result. My goal was to finish in the first six."

No previous Canadian has ever finished higher than 10th in the annual competition.

PRAISES RIVALS

Of the medalists, the fourfoot-six, 72-pound Canadian said: "They were very consistent and neat. Their routines were very good."

Her coach, Geoff Palmer of Toronto, said:

"Elfi's results were what we hoped for but didn't really expect. She avoided major errors, got the marks she deserved, and showed that Canada is moving into the second echelon in women's gymnastics behind the Russians, Romanians and East Germans."

Your Individual Horoscope

Frances Drake

FOR MONDAY, NOVEMBER 14, 1977

What kind of day will tomorrow be? To find out what the stars say, read the forecast given for your birth Sign.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20)

A bit of friendly advice could mushroom into a profitable move. Don't hesitate to grab the chance when you get it.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21)

You may now have the responsibility of handling another's financial affairs. Do so with care. Dependence on you is great.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21)

Be flexible but not easily turned by every wind that blows; eager to take new steps forward, but not at the cost of future losses or setbacks.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23)

Don't try to buck present trends, or you may find yourself at unhappy variance with associates who could be helpful. Scrutinize all offerings carefully.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23)

Certain events can act as guideposts to the future. Keep attuned to new trends and don't miss a trick.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

An unexpected encounter with the "right" person brightens your prospects for attaining an almost "impossible" goal.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

Friends will make demands on your time, energy and cash. Be wary. One who is especially aggressive may pose a real problem. Counteract with tact, poise.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)

Frustration CAN be avoided; so can indecision and lack of faith in your own talents. Meet with others to talk over mutual problems and possible opposition.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

You now have the inside track in a number of ways — if you will just recognize opportunities when available and handle them in your usual clever manner.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

Recall an old tack or maneuver that could inspire, invigorate this day. Not everything new is THE thing, you know.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

Stellar influences auspicious. Put your mind and keen powers of observation to work, but DON'T make impulsive decisions. A good day for accomplishment.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20)

Rule out extremes and foolish chance-taking. Maintain a steady hand, a watchful eye and a determination not to forsake principles. Some misleading influences prevail.

YOU BORN TODAY are governed by a zodiacal Sign of strength, purpose, versatility, mental and physical vitality.

You like people, travel for adventure and stimulating enterprises. Using your talents to their fullest, you could succeed in almost any field of your choice but, if undeveloped and indifferent to responsibility, you could easily become a "playboy" or, at best, a dilettante with little accomplishment to your credit.

On the higher plane, you could look forward to success in any of the following fields: science, business management, music, literature, the law or invention.

Birthdate of: Charles Lyell, geologist; Prince Charles, of England.

Canadian jumpers tops

TORONTO (CP) — The Canadian equestrian team won the International Nations Cup in a jumpoff Sunday against the United States at the Royal Horse Show. Canada and the U.S. were the only countries to complete the regulation two rounds without committing a single fault, forcing a tie-breaker in which the fastest combined time would have been the deciding factor had the teams ended in yet another deadlock on points.

But having set a blistering pace, the Canadians were under control with three clean jumpoff rides to two for the U.S. before the last U.S. rider, Buddy Brown on Sandsblaze, knocked down a fence in his attempt to pull his team ahead of the Canadians' time.

For Canada, it was the first Prix des Nations victory here in six years. The U.S. has won this event four times in the last five years.

But the key to the Canadian win was a magnificent pressure ride by veteran Jim Elder of Aurora, Ont., aboard Scotch Valley, forcing the final U.S. rider to take the chances that eventually caused Sandsblaze to knock down a fence and give Canada the Cup.

Britain and West Germany both committed eight faults in their two regulation rounds and finished tied for third place.

HAD CLEAN ROUNDS

On the way to the jumpoff, John Simpson of Cochrane, Alta., with Texas, Ian Millar of Perth, Ont., aboard Brother Sam, and Terry Leibel of Toronto, riding Merchant of Venice, all had two clean rounds.

In a Nations Cup only the top three scores among a four-member team count. As a result, Canada moved into second place in the nations point standings. The U.S. leads with 71, followed by Canada with 33, Britain with 23 and West Germany with 22.

The U.S. won both events on Saturday's program. In the International Fault and Out, Bernie Traurig's took the winners' plate with Fair Warning after scoring 32 points in 61.1 seconds. In the Fault and Out, a rider collects points for successive fences jumped in a set time.

Team-mate Brown won the International Scurry Stakes during the afternoon.

Brown, of South Salem, N.Y., guided Viscount around the course in 47.6 seconds, ahead of second-place Lutz Merkel of West Germany, aboard Golden Gate, in 50.1.

BRITAIN COMES SECOND

Tim Grubb of Britain was second in the Fault and Out with 32 points but in a slower time with Incheape Chicargo while third place went to West German Willibert Mehkopf with 30 points on Fantast.

Canadian riders were all but shut out Saturday, gaining one point in the two events when Leibel finished sixth aboard Merchant Of Venice in the Fault and Out.

However, the Canadian team met between the two events in the $10,000 East-West Challenge Cup, which was won by the Eastern team after a jumpoff.

Torchy Millar of Milton, Ont., who suffered a broken wrist during a fall Friday night, withdrew from the Canadian team. However, the international jury decided Saturday to allow Canada to substitute Elder for Millar after receiving the approval of all competing teams.

Girl Reminds Boys Of Their Mothers

DEAR ABBY: All the boys at school confide in me like I was their mother or something. They're always asking my advice on how to get dates with some of the really neat girls they have a crush on.

Is there some witty or catchy phrase I can throw out to let them know that I am available?

Also, my folks are taking me to Hawaii over the Christmas holidays, and I'd like to lose about 30 pounds in a month. I'd sure like to look cute for the trip, so please hurry your answer. Sign me...

PUDGY

DEAR PUDGY: One problem at a time, starting with the one that's probably responsible for the others. You can lose weight by going on a serious diet under a doctor's supervision, but don't expect to shed 30 pounds in 30 days. It took you longer than that to pile it on.

Boys treat you like their mothers because you probably remind them of THEIRS. When you look more like a girl they want to date, they'll realize that you are "available," and you won't need a catchy phrase with which to catch them.

DEAR ABBY: I am a registered nurse who has worked for a competent physician for 15 years.

Every hour at least one person calls and says, "I have a virus. Ask the doctor if I can run in on my lunch hour for a shot."

Abby, what this country needs is a sidewalk booth operated on the same principle as a cigarette machine. The patient could deposit a coin, stick his arm in a slot, select his own medication and get a shot.

People keep asking, "Whatever happened to the good old-fashioned family doctor who made house calls?" Well, I'd like to know whatever happened to the good old-fashioned trusting patient who let the doctor diagnose the case and prescribe the treatment?

SANTA MONICA

DEAR SANTA: The old-fashioned family doctor was succeeded by a new breed who found he could practice more effectively in his office or in a hospital. And the "old-fashioned patient" has yielded to a generation mostly covered by medical insurance—with a tendency to overuse medical care.

DEAR ABBY: I am one of those people who eat like a horse and never put on a pound. Most of my friends tell me I'm too thin, and someone is always giving me a remedy that will fatten me up. I have tried everything, but I can't seem to gain.

I've had people I hardly know walk up to me, stretch their fingers around my waist, and say, "Gee, you're skinny!" They'd never walk up to a fat person and say, "Gee, you're fat!"

I have been hurt so many times by these rude remarks. Will you please give me a good snappy comeback that will put them in their places?

TOO THIN

DEAR TOO THIN: Silence is often the most effective response to a rude remark. But do see a doctor, dear. He may enjoy "fattening someone up"—for a change.
